

To whom it may concern,

I would like to comment on the Climate Act Scoping Plan. I generally support increased renewable energy resources, however, I believe to rely only on electrical power is not wise! If the power grid goes out due to any natural disaster or due to tampering by a foreign country or war, it leaves the whole country extremely vulnerable, because nothing will work ... cars, phones, computers, furnaces, stoves, etc! One of the main reasons I chose a gas stove was so that when the power goes off, I can still light a burner with a match and cook hot nutritious food to help me stay warm + safe during the outage. The old saying still holds ... "don't put all of your eggs in one basket." I believe some level of diversification is the ~~the~~ wisest choice.
